Well Water Testing Effective Tuesday, September 5, 2017

Harris County Public Health advises that private well water owners in flooded areas test their drinking water. If the wellhead was covered with floodwaters, it may be contaminated and should be chlorinated and tested before drinking the water. Harris County Public Health has setup a service to assist Harris County residents. Those Harris County residents who suspect their private water wells are contaminated may pick up sample bottles and instructions at one of the following locations. Samples need to be taken the same day that residents will be returning it to the pickup location. Locations are open 10:00am – 3:00pm.
